

Lucky.golf Redesign Proposal Plan

Katie Aland

02/13/26

Purpose and Goals

The purpose of this website is to handle the joint ventures for Remuda and Crane Field golf courses. This website allows golfers to sign up for the association, events, lessons, and tournaments for either course. It is also a place where golfers can buy gifts such as passes. The goal of this redesign is to create more intuitive user flows and to simplify the information on the website. There are many related sections that are not grouped together. By adding clearer groups and eliminating redundant information, the website will be more easily navigated and productive.

Applicability

This website is applicable to my portfolio as it has a lot of varied functionality. This website needs to accomplish many different tasks while still being cohesive. There is a specific limited color scheme. I feel I will need to be creative to not decrease the functionality of the website to improve the grouping and flow of the website. I think this project is important to show my ability to work with specific guidelines or requirements.

This project will have many forms as most products and services on the website require a lot of information in order to buy them. Currently, the forms are hard to use and hard to understand what formatting is required in the inputs. I will use these forms to show my ability to design easy to use, simplistic forms.

Coding a countdown and creating a working shopping cart will show my ability to code in Javascript. This is an element that is missing from my portfolio. I have a minimal amount of projects that include Javascript, so this will help show my increased knowledge and skill. Currently, lucky.golf has many accessibility errors. I plan to increase the accessibility of the website and ensure a wider audience can use it. This is especially important as the user base for this website tends to be older so they are more likely to need accessibility features. I will also ensure that the website is responsive and fits on all screen sizes.

Resources

I will be using Google webfonts and Bootstrap as resources to complete this project. I will use the coding languages HTML, SASS, and JavaScript to code this project. I will be using the images, content, and logos that are already in use on the website. However, I will be implementing them in different capacities. Since lucky.golf has content from both Crane Field and Remuda golf course I will be using images and logos found on their individual websites as well.
